ACCESSING EMOTIONS FOR THE ON-CAMERA ACTOR

Actor, Producer, Coach & Film Director, PRICE HALL (ARTISTS DIE BEST IN BLACK, starring Malcolm McDowell & Luke Goss), and Actor, Producer & Coach, CINDY HOGAN (numerous feature films & TV shows, '96 & '97 SAG-AFTRA Member of the Year, 2010 Coastie Award for Best Workshop of the Year), offer one of the most unique opportunities for the On-Camera Actor to gain access to truthful and organic emotions on "cue", under any and all circumstances. The goal of this Workshop is to instill a new-found confidence and excitement in the Actor in knowing they can fulfill the requirements of any character's emotional life.

Emotions – we all have them and so do the characters we breathe life into. However, presenting a real character with real emotions as an actor can be challenging, strenuous, and scary. Especially when the emotions the actor needs to access must be truthful. You cannot fool the camera.

This Workshop is a Workout for the Actor wanting to master the techniques which can provide ready access to truthful emotion. This access and control is vital for the fast pace of working for the camera, be it for television or film. We will work with your triggers, tear down inhibitions, and go as far as you are willing to go in order to access your deepest, profound, and thought provoking emotions. Young Actors will gain this access through Improv & Games.

Through prepared scene work, participants will be led to an understanding of how one accesses and connects to real emotion, and a logical, real world way to "bring it" to the work. Then they will step in front of the camera, with a prepared scene, and be directed to have it happen on "cue".

"Thank you and Cindy for helping me reach a watershed moment this past weekend. It was the first time I was able to put the fear of superficiality behind me." – Tallahassee Actress
